Patent Medicine's effect.

The neighbors of Mr. Edward H.C. Brown of Brooklyn, E. D., were startled Monday morning about eleven o'clock by the sound of violent screams and scuffling which came from his front room in the second story.

Several of them rushed in through the open door, and as they entered they were further startled by seeing him throw down a bloody razor, release himself from the grasp of his wife, step over the bleeding form of his six-year-old child and leap through the window.

Such an accumulation of horrors as was presented took several minutes for an understanding. Mrs. Brown was at first unable to collect herself enough to explain matters. When she had recovered herself sufficiently to tell what had happened she said that she had been attracted to the room by hearing her child cry loudly. Entering she found her husband holding the child between his knees, asking her over and over again "What have you been doing?"

The child was frightened and was crying and answering, "Nothing papa." Meanwhile the father was fumbling with two razors that were in a case that he owned. As his wife entered he suddenly drew one of the keen blades across the child's throat. Before he could make a second motion his wife had seized his arm and was struggling with him. During the struggle the neighbors arrived and, as said, the unhappy man leaped from the window.

As he fell he was caught on the iron pickets of the fence in front of the house and was cruelly lacerated in the face, and he fell by the sidewalk on his forehead, fracturing his skull.

Help speedily arrived, and the two, father and child, were taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, where Dr. Heyl dressed the wounds. The child was found to be not dangerously injured, the cut across her throat being a shallow one. The father's hurt was dangerous, but last night there was a prospect of his recovery. He had recovered his senses when he arrived at the hospital and seemed distressed beyond measure to learn what he had done. He wept bitterly and asked over and over if his child, who is a beautiful little girl, would recover or die.

Brown is a man by trade, the son of wealthy parents and a man in comfortable circumstances. He was always able to command good wages and was much liked and respected. He was secretary of his trade union. His wife says that he was especially fond of his little daughter, who was the youngest of his three children, and that he never had been guilty of any violence toward his family before. He had, she said, been suffering from some trouble in his head for a year past, and had taken great quantities of patent medicines, buying and taking all that he saw advertised. For about two weeks past he had been under a physician's care, but he had not ceased to take the advertised nostrums. --New York Herald.

Recent Strides in Telephony.

The eminently successful experiments in telephony recently made by the Belgian meteorologist, M. van Rysselberghe, will greatly enlarge the usefulness of the telephone.

This experimenter has succeeded in eliminating from telephonic communication through a wire the inductive action of a neighboring telegraph wire and in employing the same wire at the same time for telegraphic and telephonic work. Thus in a recent experiment a message was sent from Brussels by the Morse telegraph to the Director of Telegraphs in Paris and an oral message sent by telephone was distinctly heard while the Morse receiver was in action. Recent telephonic connections have been made between Venice and Milan, Berlin and Hamburg, Paris and Nancy, and it is reported an attempt will shortly be made to similarly connect Munich and Dresden, a distance of about three hundred and forty miles. But what gives greater interest and importance to M. Rysselberghe's experiment is that it vanquishes the difficulty of submarine telephony. A submarine cable interferes with the speed of signalling. But in the late experiment between Brussels and Dover conversation was freely exchanged without extraordinary vocal effort through sixty miles of cable and nearly two hundred miles of air line. "The experiment," says Engineer, "is very hopeful for ocean telephony."

A "QUID" IN A CAKE.--A case of tobacco poisoning was brought to light in Brooklyn on Monday which, fortunately, will not result fatally. On Sunday afternoon it appears that Mr. Meadows took his child, Alfred, two and a half years old, to Prospect Park. When entering the Park the child induced his father to buy a cake for him at a stand near by. After eating a portion of it the little fellow became very sick and vomited freely. He was taken home, and a physician, who was summoned, prescribed efficaciously for him. An examination of the cake revealed the presence of tobacco, which had been mixed through the dough. Michael Duggy, the owner of the stand at which it was procured, stated that he purchased the cake at Schomburg's bakery, in James street, this city. Other cakes were examined and found to be free from the deleterious substance. It is supposed that it accidentally fell into the dough while being mixed at the bakery. The child is out of danger. --N. Y. Herald.

Warner's SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE. Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good. For Diabetics, ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE. For sale by all dealers.
